The state of the Community

Gabriele Columbro
Executive Director

Open Source Strategy Forum, 11/20/2019
If there’s two things...

1. Financial Services is serious about Open Source

2. Open Source is a massive opportunity for you and your organization

So where is OSS in the industry, really?

Innovators: Strategic contribution
Early Adopters: Ad hoc Contribution
Early Majority: Controlled consumption
Late Majority: Ad-hoc Consumption
Laggards: No OSS(*)
And that’s where FINOS comes in.

Collaborative Projects

“Financial services future will be open source and real time.”

Chris Skinner
(The Finanser)
Top line is not what it used to be
“This city is just such a melting pot. I mean look at us. You’re from Rhode Island, I’m from Connecticut. You work in real estate, I work in finance. It’s truly remarkable.” - Baron & Darren
Commoditization is the new virtualization
Increased regulation hits the bottomline
Compliance as (open source) code
Financial Institutions -> Individuals -> (Fin)Tech vendors -> Regulators
“In 10 years the core of the global financial engine will be open source”

Gabriele Columbro
Executive Director, FINOS
